1. Recent conflict between the Federacion Universitaria Local (FUL) and the Federacion Universitaria Boliviana (FUB) over the political activities of the Secretary General of the FUL, Roberto Zapata Mendez, has reportedly been brought about through the influence of the Partido Izquierda Revolucionario (PIR) among the university students.
2. Ignacio Miashiro, a university student, is reported to have stated that the PIR is watching with great interest the present conflict occurring between the FUB and the FUL. The FUB is considered a vehicle of the PIR, and the FUL is a Falange group, definitely anti-Communist. The students have voted to censure Zapata because of his anti-Communist attitude, and he was expected to resign his position.
